I believe the original patent to be wholly or partly inoperative or invalid by reason of a defective specification, in that I claimed less than I had the right to claim in the patent. Specifically, the claims I sought and obtained in the patent are not sufficiently broad to fully cover what I consider to be my invention. The claims are unnecessarily restricted in regard to location of a microprocessor and data storage and where the decision is made as to whether or not access is to be granted. Independent claims 5 is unnecessarily limited in this manner, and additional claims are now submitted that are not thus limited. This error arose without any deceptive intention on the part of either of us, the inventors.

We hereby offer to surrender the original Patent No. 6,552,650.

I hereby declare that all statements made herein of my own knowledge are true and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true; and further that these statements were made with the knowledge that willful false statements and the like so made are punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both under Section 1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code and that such willful false statements may jeopardize the validity of the application or any patent reissued thereon.
